Our Observation and Guidance Program

Your child has been placed on our observation and guidance program. The observation part of the program is provided at no charge. Dr. Anderson feel that by closely monitoring your child's developing jaw structure and teeth, that if or when treatment is indicated, it can be instituted at the proper time. We will see your child either once or twice per year.

Occasionally, however, a guidance appliance may need to be placed. There would be a fee for this service. Generally these procedures, although less expensive than braces, guide the teeth into the mouth in a much better position. This results in an easier problem to solve. Sometimes, this can eliminate the need for braces.

So, by taking part in this program, it should be a great advantage and give you and your child something to really smile about.
